

COUNTRESS MURDER SCANDALIZES COURT

Helena Is Prostrated Over
Tragedy of Favorite Attendant.

ROME, Italy, March 3.—With Queen Helena utterly prostrated over the tragic death of her favorite lady-in-waiting, the beautiful and accomplished Countess Giulia Triglioni, who was murdered yesterday in the obscure Hotel Rebecchino by Lieut. Baron Vincenzo di Paterno; and with the murderer reported at the point of death in the hospital, following his attempt at suicide, the Italian court is today in a state of turmoil.

There is a disposition on the part of the King to blame Queen Helena for the tragedy, which has drawn attention to a number of recent scandals in Italian high life.

She Tried to Reform.
It developed today that the crime was a most sordid one. The baron tried to blackmail the countess and failing, murdered her when she demanded that their illicit relations be broken off.

Two bloodstained letters found hidden in the dead woman's baggage are mute accusers of the fascinating young cavalry officer, whose handsome figure and superb horsemanship had made him the idol of the elite of Rome's young womanhood.

In the letters, Paterno demanded as the price of his ceasing his attentions to the countess and permitting her to retain her status at the court and her position in her own household, that she give him $400,000 with which to pay his debts. He intimated that if she refused his request he would then make the scandal connecting their names more acute than it was.

After reading the notes, the authorities were convinced that the liaison between the pair was really intentionally started by the baron. It was first exposed when he turned over to one of his most pressing creditors a check which the countess sent him to help him over a serious difficulty. It was then brought to light by the countess herself, who had been overheard to have been talking to her maid about the check so that he might get a strong hold on the beautiful young matron and be able to blackmail her out of money enough to pay all of his debts.

Count Threatens to Kill.
The body of the countess was today taken to the palace occupied by her husband, Count Romualdo Triglioni, gentleman in waiting to the King. Although he had begun proceedings for a separation, his difficulties with his wife had been partly reconciled, as the result of the intervention of the King and Queen, and he is today completely prostrated. He was twelve years older than his wife, and they had two children, the eldest a beautiful girl of twelve years and the other a boy of eight.

Count Triglioni threatens to murder Baron Paterno in order to prevent any further scandal, the latter is closely guarded in the hospital. He has refused to talk about the tragedy, which was plainly carefully planned by him.

Woman Set Afire By Two Negroes Is Dying

NEWARK, N. J., March 3.—Annie Fisher, whose clothing was saturated with oil and ignited by two negroes last night, is dying from the burns today. The motive of the negroes is altogether unknown. A truck driver rescued the woman.

WOMEN URGE WOMAN FOR SCHOOL OFFICER

Want One of Their Sex for Assistant Superintendent.

A woman may be the next assistant superintendent of Washington public schools.

A quiet campaign to place a woman in this position has been carried on for the past week, it was learned today, and it is understood that the three women members of the Board of Education are favorable to the project.

Aside from declaring that a woman would be eligible to that position, as well as to that of superintendent or president of the board, Mr. Stuart refused to discuss the matter.

The movement is headed by a number of women teachers and others who believe that their interests should be represented directly by a woman in an executive position at the school offices.

The power of appointment lies with Mr. Stuart, subject to confirmation of the board, and this fact is pointed to as an encouragement to the plan, since it was Mr. Stuart who, a few years ago, broke an unwritten law that supervising principals should be men, and placed a woman, Miss Flora Hendley, at the head of the northeast division of public schools.

Miss Hendley is one of the persons named as a probable choice if a woman is appointed. Other available material the women believe they have in Miss M. E. Brown, now director of primary instruction, and Miss E. M. Vescott, principal of Western High School.

Miss Hendley has made a brilliant record as an executive since her appointment as a supervising principal. She had many years of teaching experience here. Miss Brown is widely known as the author of several primary textbooks, as well as by her work in developing the primary work here. Miss Vescott has been principal of Western for many years, before that time having taught there.

LAFOLLETTE SCORES DOLLAR DIPLOMACY

Concessions Granted to Aid
Big Business, Says Senator's Weekly.

MADISON, Wis., March 3.—In a bitter attack on "dollar diplomacy," Senator La Follette prints the following in this week's issue of La Follette's Weekly:

"The Taft-Knox dollar diplomacy has scored again. This time it is a trade with Japan.

"The United States has given up its treaty right to exclude Japanese laborers, leaving in its place a 'gentlemen's agreement,' which, with the treaty provision, is nothing.

"The 'dollar diplomacy' is more interested in Morgan concessions in Manchuria than in Japanese exclusion at home.

"The 'dollar diplomacy' has traded our navy's secrets for contracts for the Schwab shipbuilding company.

"The 'dollar diplomacy' is meddling in Turkey to get some railroad concessions for American financiers.

"What next? Is there anything more? Anything which Mr. Knox and President Taft will not give to foreign nations in exchange for 'business' desired by their friends in Wall Street?"

Child-Wife Pleads to Be Allowed to Go to School

CINCINNATI, March 3.—"I want to go to school; I like my teacher," pleaded little Carmella Altmar Stump, twelve years old, who was denied the privilege of attending the baby grade at the Jackson Public School because she is married.

Her short dress did not nearly reach her shoe tops as she bent over the table to show how well she could write. The girl had been married with the consent of her parents in Kentucky to Frank Stump, nineteen years old.

Principal O'Donnell, of the Jackson School, holds that because she is married she cannot attend school. But the child wife wants to continue her studies, and the matter has been brought to the attention of the superintendent of schools.

How I Made My Hair Grow

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertisements, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy, so it was impossible to comb it or do it up. Things I tried were positively injurious and from my own experience I cannot recommend anything but the hair life preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After having used them for a long time, I finally found a simple prescription which I can recommend to all who are troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I have also used it, and obtained wonderful results. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months, and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair, but it has practically increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this hair life preparation from almost any druggist.

The prescription is as follows:
Bay Rum, 1 oz.; Menthol Crystals, 1/2 drachm; Lavone de Composee, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed, add a few drops of To-Kalon Perfume, which mixes perfectly with the other ingredients. This, however, is not necessary.

Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.

Go to your druggist and ask for an eight-ounce bottle containing six ounces of Bay Rum; also one-half drachm of Menthol Crystals, and a two-ounce bottle of Lavone de Composee. Mix the ingredients, and you have the hair life preparation. Let it stand one-half hour. It is ready for use.

The People's Pharmacy, Seventh street and Massachusetts avenue, the well-known and popular druggists of this city, have filled this formula for many of the season, and state that the satisfaction from its use is so great that they have found it necessary to make special provision to fill the prescription promptly and carefully.

Argentina Potential.

If the country has the same average potentiality for producing food as land similarly situated in North America or Europe, it would seem that Argentina can support 100,000,000 people easily, as only small parts of it lie outside the temperate zone.

Rate for Verse.

"How much do you pay for verse?" asked the stranger who had accosted the magazine publisher, instead of the editor. "Four cents a pound," said the publisher, abstractedly, thinking of the proposed rate on advertising matter.—Buffalo Express.
